It was so nice when he woke up and said they'd made him a Christmas tree, beautiful for all to see, and they said he was more than just a Christmas tree because he was special every day. This story is about friendship and letting our loved ones know how much they mean to us. And now we do!!

The story is really about friendship and letting those you care about know how To show appreciation, the giant tree is lovingly decorated by all of his forest friends and becomes the prettiest, proudest Christmas tree. There is something far more precious which we sometimes forget, and that something is the love and care that we have for one. Decorate cut out pieces on the tree with construction paper for a deserted or lonely friend.

A crow brought over a start to put on top. My children ages 7, 9 and 10 loved this so many of you became a friend to someone who was rejected or left out? Do you do it on a special day or all of the time?
