I think you'll feel the same way after reading this book. She would take on homeschooling Julia for 5th grade and after that one year, she would return to public school to begin middle school.

Brodie lamented the loss of writing in her own elementary school, and makes writing She loathes multiple choice tests, mind-numbing worksheets, endless fill-in-the-bubble evaluations, and so on. Laura gives a very flagrant look at her attempt of short-term homeschooling. She choose to homeschool her daughter when she entered fifth grade because she figured her daughter needed a sabbatical from school life.

This is the memoir of a Los Angeles mom who decided to try homeschooling with her I don't think we do ourselves and other parents a disservice to paint parenting or homeschooling as an easy job.
